

The FPL Website: premier recruitment location for FIX trained professionals

By Daniella Baker, FPL Marketing and Communications Manager

Have you ever felt that finding the right candidate to fill that specialist electronic trading position on your team is never going to happen and that no applicant quite hits the spot?

With the electronic trading world being a narrow and specialised niche, the financial services community has realised that finding the right person, with the right skill set and FIX knowledge base through generic job search engines often isn't the most effective approach. To counteract these difficulties, FPL has decided to re-launch its own job posting site with improved functionality, providing a premier location on the web, for the international recruitment of FIX trained professionals.

A key feature of the new site is the multi-parameter job search engine. This enables job seekers to search the site by keyword, region, job category, or any combination thereof and find exactly the right position to meet their requirements in a quick and effective manner. Additionally, job seekers may subscribe via the website and receive automatic email notification of new job postings; each posting is currently distributed via email to over 1500 recipients, delivering recruitment opportunities directly to the job-seekers inbox. As a recruiter these enhancements significantly increase the probability of suitable job postings reaching the right candidate in a speedy and efficacious manner, potentially converting that empty desk in the corner into something a little more productive.

Posting jobs to the website is very simple, a credit system is used and each job posted requires the expenditure of one credit. To ensure that the FPL member community is able to achieve maximum benefit from the job-postings site, FPL Premier Members are granted unlimited job posting credits and regular FPL members are granted 2 postings per month. For non-members and those regular members who would like to purchase additional credits, these credits may be easily purchased from the FPL website, they are very competitively priced and discounted multi-credit packs are available. Funding from the job posting site assists FPL in achieving its mission of maintaining and promoting the FIX Protocol by helping to financially support FPL's everyday operating expenses and further strengthening FPL's position as the premier site for FIX-related jobs. So next time you're searching for a FIX trained professional, try the FPL website, you may be amazed at what a bit of targeted recruitment could achieve.

For more information about the FPL job-postings website, please visit www.fixprotocol.org/jobs.